

SRM 8000

Certification of the social responsibility and accountability of organisations

Society is placing ever greater emphasis on the social responsibility of companies. This is leading to an increasing number of organisations voluntarily including social and environmental aspects as part of their corporate strategy.

SRM 8000 certification demonstrates that an organisation monitors its employees' working conditions, their safety and the way they are managed. It also focuses on legal compliance.

Benefits of SRM 8000 certification:

- ensures compliance with legislative requirements
- increases productivity and loyalty of employees
- strengthens a firm's credibility and competitiveness
- provides an assurance that employees have a safe and sound environment of work

Certified organisations can include URS logos in their promotional activities.
